John F. Dodge, although a multi-millionaire, was "one of the men" of the factory up to the time of being fatally stricken with pneumonia when on a business trip to New York. He took no interest in social life, preferring to find friendship in his own plain, democratic way. Riches could no more spoil such a man than could poverty hold him down.

LOCAL BANKS

Elect Officers For Ensuing Year.

The three local banks of the city had their regular election of officers at their offices Tuesday afternoon of last week, and elected officers to serve during the ensuing year.

These banks are all in a thriving condition, carrying deposits amounting to nearly $2,000,000 at this time, and all are being conducted in a way that is pleasing to their stockholders and is a credit to the officers in charge.

Few changes were made in the election of officers and directors, only that Mr. L. G. Davidson, succeeds Mr. W. F. Champ as cashier of the Citizens National Bank. Mr. Champ resigning several weeks ago.

The following were elected at the Citizens bank:

B. F. Hudson, President; J. J. Walker, Vice President; L. G. Davidson, Cashier; W. O. Rigney, Assistant cashier; Joe J. Walker, Jr., Ass't Cashier; W. F. Miller, Teller; Mrs. N. C. Hamilton, Assistant Teller. There was no change in the directorship.

The Garrard Bank and Trust Company elected the following:

R. E. McRoberts, President; W. R. Cook, Vice-President; J. W. Elmore, Cashier; W. S. Hopper, Assistant Cashier; E. L. Gadsberry, Assistant Cashier; H. D. Tomlinson and Wesley Courts, Book-keepers. The following now compose the directors of this bank; R. E. McRoberts, W. R. Cook, T. J. Price, W. H. Brown, J. H. Dalton, F. B. Marksberry, V. A. Lear, R. L. Burton and A. B. Brown, Jr.

The National Bank elected the following officers, there being no change, all of them having served faithfully during the past year or more. They are A. R. Denny, President; J. E. Stormes, Vice President; S. C. Denny, Cashier; C. M. Thompson, Teller; J. R. Harris, Individual book-keeper; Hugh Mobley, General book-keeper. The directors being A. R. Denny, G. B. Swinebroad, J. H. Posey, J. E. Stormes, S. C. Denny, A. T. Sanders and Dr. W. M. Elliott.

The Richest Brothers.

The death of John F. Dodge of Detroit brings to mind the neglected fact that a laboring man need not fear there is any class distinction that can serve to hold him down if he has the qualifications necessary to success. John F. and Horace E. Dodge were mechanics just a few years ago. But they were good mechanics and they didn't take any interest in short hours or "class consciousness."

Henry Ford was a mechanic, too, and he, like the Dodge brothers, was a good workman. The automobile business was in its babyhood then, and Henry Ford had some ideas, which he presented to the Dodge brothers. The three developed these ideas and the Ford car was the result. Ford developed a genius for efficiency in manufacturing, but it is believed that to one, or both, of the Dodge brothers must be credited the invention of the essential features of the Ford engine, which is, of course, the Ford car. A few years ago the Dodge brothers withdrew from the Ford company and set up a factory producing a car of their own design.

Immediately after closing the deal with Mr. Gulley, Messrs. Kinnaird Brothers purchased the Lackey property of Mr. G. B. Swinebroad, diagonally across the street from the post office and will at once erect a new and modern garage and home for Dodge cars, of which they have the exclusively agency for Garrard county, and the sales of which have grown enormous throughout the community.

DEPLORABLE

DEATH.

Burns Prove Fatal To Six Year Old Boy.

Clothes Catch From Open Grate.

A very deplorable and sad accident occurred last Sunday morning when "J. D." the six year old son of Mr. P. B. Williams, was fatally burned, his clothes catching fire from an open grate, death relieving his suffering about seven o'clock Sunday evening, twelve hours after the accident happened.

Mr. John Williams, grandfather of the little fellow, had gotten up and made the fire in the room and while he was in another part of the house, "J. D." arose and attempted to get something from the mantel, when his out-cloth night gown became ignited, screaming he ran from the house into the yard. Miss Rebecca Williams, hearing his screams ran to him, and succeeded in tearing the burning gown from him and in doing so, both of her hands were terribly and painfully burned. When Mr. Williams arrived with a blanket, every stitch of clothing was burned and the little fellow was suffering untold agonies. Every medical attention was given, but to no avail, death resulting as stated above.

Of course the family is grief stricken and much sympathy is felt for the father, who was left a widower about one year ago, his wife having died under very sad circumstances, leaving three little children among them being "J. D." who was the oldest boy and the idol of his grandfather, who has practically looked after him since the death of his mother last December. Miss Rebecca Williams who has also lived with them and helped to care for the children, is suffering severely from the burns and the shock of the horrible accident.

After appropriate services Monday afternoon the remains were laid at rest in the Lancaster cemetery, beside those of his mother, to await the Resurrection Morn.

Business Deal.

Real estate deals come so fast in Lancaster, one can scarcely keep up with them. One of the most important transactions during the past week was when Messrs. John Gill and Robert Kinnaird sold their garage building to Mr. J. D. Gulley, the price being, we are told, was $5,000.

Mr. Gulley owns the building adjoining the one just purchased and he together with Mr. Fisher Herring, who also owns the red brick next to the Gulley property, are contemplating erecting a large apartment house, with modern restaurant in connection. They have the proposition under serious consideration and developments are expected to materialize during the next few days.

Immediately after closing the deal with Mr. Gulley, Messrs. Kinnaird Brothers purchased the Lackey property of Mr. G. B. Swinebroad, diagonally across the street from the post office and will at once erect a new and modern garage and home for Dodge cars, of which they have the exclusively agency for Garrard county, and the sales of which have grown enormous throughout the community.

Hubbard.

On Wednesday Jan. 7th, Mrs. Edd Hubbard died at her home on Fall Lick pike after a month's suffering of that dreaded disease, tuberculosis.

Bessie was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Lawson, was in her 21st year, and had been a faithful member of the M. E. Church since early childhood and will be greatly missed by her associates at Lawson Chapel.

When told that she could not get well she said, "I am ready to go, I have put my trust in God."

She had only been married about a year and much sympathy is expressed for the young husband who is left to mourn her loss besides father, mother, one brother, three sisters and a host of relatives and friends.

The remains were buried in the Lancaster cemetery.

TAXABLE

PROPERTY

Of Garrard County One Million More Than Last Year.

COUNTY AND STATE TAX TOTAL

$14,700,852.00.

Garrard county's Tax Commissioner, Mr. A. T. Scott, has completed the list of taxable property for the county and the recapitulation has been turned over to County Clerk, J. B. Bourne.

The total taxable property, both county and state show a total of $14,700,852.00, which is about one million dollars more than the assessment was last year.

The recapitulation shows that there are 144,228 acres of land in the county, the total assessed value being $9,563,168.00. The live stock of the county is valued at $1,340,100.00 while the tangible property, less the exemptions, show a valuation of $1,014,862.00. The intangible property is listed at $1,540,267.00. The value of the implements in the county is placed at $166,603.00.

The town lots show a valuation of $277,065.00, while the improvements on same are assessed at $593,180.00. The total value of the merchandise of the county is $287,010.00.

The Commission's book shows that 533 automobiles are listed in the county at a total valuation of $230,010.00 and 26 Trucks, valued at $9,675.00.

HUN CRIMINALS ARE DECIDED ON

Definite List of Violators of War Laws were Drawn up Monday.

AMERICA WILL HELP

Paris.—Premier Clemenceau attended Monday's meeting of the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference and helped draw up a definite list of German officers and soldiers demanded by the Allies for trial on charges of violating the laws of war. Britain, and Nitti, Italy, and Hugh C. Wallace and Baron Matsui, respectively, American and Japanese Ambassadors to France, were present at the session.

If by that time the Jugo-Slav government has replied favorably to the ultimatum sent to Belgrade by the Council relative to the Adriatic question, it will be acted on. If the Jugo-Slavs refuse to meet the Council's demands, M. Clemenceau will leave the matter to be settled by his successor.

It is improbable that the Premier will take any part in decisions regarding the future form of the council, and its replacement by an Ambassadorial Conference, as his action would bind the man who assumes his duties in the French Government.

Questions regarding future representation of France at the Peace Conference are brought up by the retirement of M. Clemenceau. He is not only head of the French delegation, but President of the conference, and three French plenipotentiaries, Stephen Pichon, Capt. Andre Tardieu and Louis Klotz, are members of the Clemenceau cabinet and will retire with him. The fifth member of the French delegation, Jules Cambon, is not in the cabinet. M. Clemenceau will assure continuity of diplomatic negotiations until a new minister is formed, when he will resign as plenipotentiary.

Mr. Lloyd George and Signor Nitti will return to their capitals after Monday's meeting to await formation of a new French cabinet before resuming consideration of pending problems. Notable in the list is the question of the future status of Turkey.

The text of the note demanding extradition of former Emperor William of Germany, sent to Holland by the Council, which will be made public Monday, is understood to support the demand by citing Article 227 of the Versailles Treaty, which "publicly arraigns" the erstwhile Kaiser for a "supreme offense against international morality and the sanctity of treaties."

It appeals to the Dutch Government's sentiments of justice, begging it to associate itself with the Allies in a "work of exemplary repression," according to a report.

It might, however, be economical to elect Mr. Hoover president. He could do his presiding and food controlling all at the same time.—Richmond Register.

ONLY 224

DOGS LISTED.

Shows A Falling Off of 80 Per Cent. From
Last Year.

The records of the County Clerk show that only 224 dogs have been listed for taxation or rather have applied for license tags up to this time. This is a falling off of over 80 per cent. from last year when 1630 dogs were licensed by their owners.

The dog owners are laying themselves liable and Sheriff Walker tells us that if the owners don't get busy that he will, as the law tells him, plainly what to do in the event that owners refuse or neglect to comply with this law.

Here is what the law says in a nut shell:

The following are extracts from the Kentucky Statutes.

From: Section 68—B4. Owners to pay license on each dog owned.

On or before the 1st day of January 1919, and on or before the 1st day of January of each year thereafter, the owner of any dog shall apply to the County Court Clerk, or deputy of the County in which said owner resides, either orally or in writing, for a license for each such dog owned or kept by him.

From Sec. 68—B-5.

All licenses shall be void on the first day of January of the following year.

From: Sec. 68—B-17.

On and after the 1st day of January 1919, it shall be unlawful for any person to own or keep any dog unless such dog is licensed by the County Court Clerk or deputy of the County in which the dog is kept; and unless such dog at all times wears the collar and tag provided for by this act.

From: Sec. 68—B-18.

It shall be the duty of the Sheriff of the County or his deputy to seize and impound any dog or dogs which are found running at large and unaccompanied by its owner or keeper.

It shall be the duty of the Sheriff or deputy to seize and impound any dog running at large which does not bear a proper licensed tag.

NEGLECTING THAT COLD OR COUGH?

Why, when Dr. King's New Discovery so promptly
checks it

IT'S natural you don't want to be careless and let that old cold or cough drag on or that new attack develop seriously. Not when you can get such a proved successful remedy as Dr. King's New Discovery.

Cold, cough, grippe, croup don't resist this standard reliever very long. Its quality is as high today as it always has been—and it's been growing steadily in popularity for more than fifty years. 60c. and $1.20 a bottle at all druggists. Give it a trial.

Tardy Bowels, Inert Liver

They just won't let you put "pop" into your work or play. Sick headache comes from retaining waste matter and impurities in the body.

Feel right for anything—make the liver lively, the bowels function regularly, with Dr. King's New Life Pills. Smoothly yet positively they produce results that cleanse the system and make the liver and bowels respond to the demands of a strong, healthy body. Still 25c.—at all druggists. Try them tonight.

Polite Dismissal.

Verona and Elsie were playing house one day, when Bernice joined them. They were not particularly anxious to see her that day, and Verona said: "Well, Bernice, you can be the cook, and this is your day out."

Just a Temporary Stay.

After the death of his wife Uncle Will went to live with his brother, and his little niece was overheard explaining it to her little playmate: "You see, Betty, Uncle Will's wife just died, and he's come to live with us till he finds another one."

Appreciate Cucumbers.

In Cairo and Alexandria, Egypt, cucumbers are truly appreciated. They are developed to their utmost and are much eaten and liked by the natives. Moreover, the beautiful women understand the value of cucumber juice, and it is squeezed from the vegetable for them to use as a lotion for the skin.

Johnnie's Big Discovery.

Johnnie stopped in his frolic to watch the maid stretch his sweater which had shrunk in washing. Returning to his play, he found his pet kitten at full length on the floor, apparently bigger than ever before. "I've found out how kitties grow to be big cats," he triumphantly called: "they stretch themselves."

Intemperance a Danger.

As love and self respect are the pillars of the house life, so intemperance is the certain destroyer of the home, attacking as it does the very fabric upon which it rests. Very many people imagine temperance refers to abstinence from, or moderation in drinking spirituous liquors, beer or narcotic drugs. But it is possible to be intemperate in words and actions.—Exchange.

Do Animals Commit Suicide?

A correspondent writes: "I have seen a deer, chased by wolves, jump over a precipice to death. Mink, muskrat and other animals of this kind will drown themselves rather than suffer the pain of the trap. I have also witnessed a rabbit, chased by its deadly enemy, the weasel, leap to death or drown itself."

MILK AND CREAM CONTESTS

Producers and Dealers Enter Novel
Contest to Improve Quality to City Consumers.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Friendly rivalry among milk producers and dealers is an important feature in the improvement of the milk supplies of cities, says Department Circular 53, "Milk and Cream Contests." The two kinds of contests—the one in which the dairymen prepare their own samples of milk or cream especially for the contest and the one in which samples are collected on the street without previous notification to the producers—are discussed in detail. The discussion includes the method of preparing milk and cream for entry in contests, the method of scoring on cards prepared by the dairy division of the bureau of animal industry, shipping and handling at destination, laboratory equipment for conducting contests, methods of analyzing and testing, and publicity methods in connection with milk and cream contests.

RAFFLE OF PUREBRED CALVES

Novel Idea Introduced in Wisconsin
County to Promote the Cause of Better Sires.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A novel form of raffle has been employed in Lincoln county, Wisconsin, by the members of a newly organized Holstein cattle association to promote the cause of better sires. With the profit the association derived from the sale of 32 head of cattle which it brought in from the southern part of the state, and from the sale of several other animals secured locally, the association bought eight purebred bull calves. The method by which these calves were distributed resembled a raffle. However, no fee was exacted of "chance" takers, but instead all were required to join the association. In every instance the bull went to men who had not had purebred bulls previously or who had manifested little interest in the purebred stock movement.

ECONOMY IN FUEL FOR DAIRY

Specialists Advise That All Waste
Steam Be Utilized During the Current Winter.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many factory operations of the dairy industry require the use of heat, although they demand little power. As exhaust steam contains about 90 per cent of its original heat, it can be advantageously used in pasteurizing milk and cream, and in sterilizing dairy equipment in the average commercial plant, according to specialists. They advise that all dairy factory men utilize this waste steam during the current winter, when fuel may be scarce and high in price. Information on how to use steam effectively will be furnished free of charge when request is made to the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

WATER FOR COWS IN WINTER

If Highest Production Is to Be Maintained Drinking Water Must Be Warmed.

Cows frequently refuse to drink the water in an icy trough. A cow must be thirsty, indeed, before she will fill herself with freezing water. It is necessary, in view of the fact that milk contains about 87 per cent water to warm the drinking water for dairy cows if highest possible production is to be maintained. Unless the cow drinks a sufficient quantity of water her milk production will diminish, and she will not drink enough unless it is warm. Suitable shelter from cold rains and raw winds is another comfort which the cow will repay in milk.

The Vapor Treatment FOR Influenza, Croup and Pneumonia

Mothers who know the anguish of waiting helplessly through age-long hours for the physician who may not arrive in time will hardly fail to keep on hand a bottle of this effective croup remedy. Vapomentha is a certain preventive and specific for colds, croup, influenza, grippe, pneumonia and other respiratory ailments.

BRAME'S VAPOMENTHA SALVE

WILL NOT STAIN THE CLOTHES

It is applied externally to the chest, throat and nose and is quickly absorbed through the pores of the skin. Its healing vapors rise and are inhaled directly to the infected membranes. A double-action remedy, it is doubly certain to produce satisfactory results. It has this characteristic that distinguishes it from other salves, it will not stain the clothes. Buy a bottle of Vapomentha TODAY. It is an invaluable protection for an insignificant price.

A Joyous Helper

By GENEVIEVE ULMAR

(Copyright 1919, Western Newspaper Union)

When Laurence Colby's spinster aunt announced to him that she had made up her mind to apportion to him the part of her estate she had intended to leave him by will, he whistled volubly in his natural impetuous style.

"You have shown yourself to be a sincere and contented young man, and I shan't keep you waiting for dead man's shoes," she observed definitely.

"I certainly never made any calculations on yours," declared Laurence. "What's more, I'm perfectly satisfied and happy with my present lot. I'm earning a living, everybody seems to like me, I like everybody."

"Well, my lawyer will tell you what I have done for you, and I am glad I have done it."

The first thing Laurence thought of after he found himself independent and rich was to take a vacation. The first person he planned on visiting was Dudley Vernon.

"I've a pretty warm spot in my heart for dear old Dud," he told himself. "He helped me to get through college; he saved my life once."

So Laurence went down to Westport and became a guest at the house of Dudley's widowed sister, with whom Dudley lived.

A few days after he had arrived at Westport, Laurence got Mrs. Aiston alone and sat down for a confidential chat.

"I am worried nearly to death about Dudley," he said. "He is so changed. Won't you relieve my mind and put me in the way of helping him?"

"Dudley has been that way since he returned from a month's stay at Adrian," said Mrs. Aiston. "I will tell you all I know. It doesn't come from him, but from an accidental discovery I made. Dudley seems to have fallen in love with a young lady during his vacation. I do not know her name, only that she lives at Adrian. In his waste basket a few days since I found a photograph torn in two. Here are the fragments."

"I say!" ejaculated Laurence, scanning the joined pieces of cardboard. "If I had a picture like that I'd wear it over my heart!"

*I also found parts of a letter apparently from the father of the young lady. It informed Dudley that he could not look upon their engagement with favor, as he had learned confidentially that Dudley's business was at the point of failure."

"Is that true?" inquired Laurence.

"I fear that it is. His lawyer, Mr. Ames, tells me so."

Laurence visited the lawyer to find that ten thousand dollars would place his friend beyond the power of business disappointment. He went to Adrian seeking for a young lady whose name even he did not know. Her lovely face, however, was vividly impressed upon his mind.

Fortune favored Laurence's plans. He was traversing a residence street of Adrian when he came upon a large wallet lying on the pavement. Laurence picked it up to find it filled with papers and money. Turning a corner he nearly collided with a hurrying figure, a flushed, excited girl.

"Found at last," he breathed with intense satisfaction as he recognized her, and then observing that she was scanning walk and street with eager eyes he spoke aloud: "Excuse me miss, but have you lost something?"

"Yes, oh! yes—a wallet containing some very valuable papers I was taking to my father's office from the house."

"Is that it?" questioned Laurence, and Miss Amalie Dutton took the wallet tendered with a joyous cry.

The incident led to their becoming acquainted more fully, and within a week Laurence was an accepted visitor at the Dutton home. Through wary investigation he learned that Amalie knew Dudley Vernon, but she did not seem to be intensely interested when he was mentioned. Persistently, however, Laurence brought up the name of his friend on every possible occasion, particularly before the parents of Amalie. He lauded Dudley, he told of recent business troubles now all adjusted, and Dudley on the way to become a millionaire. Then one day there came a vast surprise when Amalie propounded the query:

"Mr. Colby, why is it that you are always speaking of Mr. Vernon? I told my friend, Virginia Bland, about it, and she cannot understand your deep interest in her fiance."

"In her what?" cried Laurence, amazement, hope, mystery, delight struggling for mastery in his heart.

"Her fiance. They were to marry, but her parents have objected and Virginia is very unhappy."

Not very long, however—for, quickly discerning the blunder he had made, Laurence set about righting the situation. He learned that the photograph must have been one given to Dudley by Miss Bland. He now enlightened Mr. Bland, telling him how he had braced Dudley financially. Amalie heard of this. By that time she and Laurence had discovered their mutual love.

"Oh, you dear, true fellow!" she cried. "To give up all your money for the sake of a friend!"

"Oh! not all, Amalie, dear," corrected Laurence. "There is still a liberal income from investments, and a beautiful home to be graced by the loveliest bride in Christendom."

"At least the happiest!" declared the devoted Amalie.

General Duncan

IS TRANSYLVANIA ALUMNUS.

General George B. Duncan, who came to Kentucky during the holidays to visit his brother and other relatives at Lexington, and who made good with the First Division in France, is an alumnus of Transylvania College at Lexington. General Duncan is a son of the late former Mayor of Lexington, Henry T. Duncan, and won his way by his own merit from his college days to the time he won the right to wear a Major General's uniform in the United States army.

U. S. WEALTH

Is Decentralized

Washington.—Kentucky is one of the twenty-five States and the District of Columbia, that have one or more national banks with resources of more than $25,000,000 each, it is shown in figures compiled today at the office of the Controller of the Currency. In all, there are now 120 national banks having resources of more than $25,000,000, but the only one in Kentucky is at Louisville.

Twenty-five of these 120 banks, or less than 21 per cent, are in New York State. In September, 1899, 74 per cent of the national banks of this country, with resources of more than $25,000,000 each, were in New York City.

These figures were made public today for the purpose of showing the decentralization of the country's banking power, formerly so largely concentrated in a few of the great cities. The statement from the Controller of the Currency in parts say:

"In 1899 five cities in the United States contained the nineteen national banks with resources of $25,000,000 or more.

"Today the 120 national banks with $25,000,000 or more are distributed among thirty-nine cities. Of those banks, forty-nine are in the New England and Middle Atlantic States, including the cities of Boston 5, New York 22, Albany 2, Buffalo 1, Philadelphia 10, Pittsburgh 6, Scranton 1, and Newark 2.

"There are in Maryland, District of Columbia and the Southern States twenty-three of the big banks, including the cities of Baltimore 2, Washington 1, Richmond 5, Norfolk 1, Atlanta 2, Nashville 1, Louisville 1, Birmingham 1, New Orleans 1, Dallas 3, Houston 2, Fort Worth 2, and Tulsa 1.

"Thirty-four of the biggest banks are in the Central West and the West, including the cities of Cleveland 2, Cincinnati 2, Toledo 1, Indianapolis 2, Detroit 2, Chicago 7, Milwaukee 1, St. Louis 3, Kansas City 4, Omaha 2, Denver 3, Minneapolis 2, St. Paul 2, and Duluth 1. In the Pacific States the cities containing fourteen of the large banks are San Francisco 5, Los Angeles 4, Portland 3 and Seattle 2."

Stolen Fruit.

From the Inland Printer, Chicago, Ill.: "On the bottom of a printer's calendar we read the following statement: 'Dull business is often traced to economy in printers' ink.' True, indeed. As we look out over the great field of business we find that the firms which have made the most notable successes are those that have used printers' ink most freely. Emphasize these facts when talking to customers—but first take a dose of your own medicine."

Novel Foot Rest.

A satisfactory foot rest or accelerator extension may be made from an ordinary strap hinge. One-half of the hinge is fastened to the floor boards while the other rests on the accelerator. All that is necessary to operate the accelerator is a slight pressure on any part of the free half of the hinge.

Listening to "Fish Stories."

Norwegian fishermen are using a species of submarine telephone to aid them in their work. A microphone is lowered from a fishing boat and connected by a wire to a telephone in the boat. The fisherman listens at the instrument and when the fish hold a meeting the listening device records the disturbance.—Scientific American.

Discovery of Asphalt.

Asphalt, with which so many roads are paved, was found by accident. For a century in Switzerland natural rock asphalt was used to extract the rich stores of bitumen it contained. It was noticed that pieces which fell from the wagons and were crushed by the wheels formed a marvelously fine road and this led to its adoption as a road material.

Morality the Object.

The end of all political struggle is to establish morality as the basis of all legislation. 'Tis not free institutions, 'tis not a democracy that is the end—no, but only the means. Morality is the object of government. We want a state of things in which crime will not pay; a state of things which allows every man the largest liberty compatible with the liberty of every other man.—Emerson.

Wonders of the Heavens.

People in the southern hemisphere see different stars, but there are some constellations which are visible at different times of the year in both hemispheres. If the earth axis kept always perpendicular to the plane of its orbit none of the northern constellations would ever be seen in the southern hemisphere, but as the axis inclines first one way and then the other, some of both sets can be seen at different times.

Tasmania.

The island of Tasmania, formerly called Van Diemen's Land, lies off the south coast of Australia. It has an area of 26,385 square miles. It is covered by a network of ridges, termed locally tiers, which enclose a multitude of small plains and valleys. The principal industries are agriculture, mining, stock-raising and some manufacturing. Tasmania is a state in the commonwealth of Australia. It has a population of two hundred thousand. The exports are wool, gold, silver, tin, timber, fruit, jam, hops and hides.

Covered Them All.

At Leicester, England, there is an inn upon the wall of which years ago a pastor wrote: "I pray for all." The village lawyer, seeing in this a means for free advertising, wrote underneath: "I plead for all." One day a farmer thought he was justified in adding: "I feed all," and an army officer passing through the village left: "I fight for all." But an unknown author added the last line by writing: "I take them all—the devil." The host, not wishing to show any partiality, has hung out his sign: "The House of All Five."

Robber River.

The discovery that there is a kind of struggle for existence among rivers is one of the interesting results of the modern study of physiography. A notable example of this contest is exhibited by England's two biggest rivers, the Thames and the Severn. Between their valleys lie the Cotswold hills, and exploration shows that the Severn, by eating backward among these hills where softer strata underlie them, has diverted to itself some of the headwaters that formerly flowed into the Thames.—New York Post.

BUSINESS MAN WOULD REFUSE OFFER OF $500

Mattingly declares Trutona's Benefits worth More than that Amount to Him.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 21st.—"I believe I would have died had it not been for Trutona, but now I feel good all over—just like a boy again and I wouldn't take $500 for my relief," W. B. Mattingly, a well known and highly respected business man of Jeffersontown, near here, said recently.

"For the past twenty-three years" Mr. Mattingly continued, "I have suffered from kidney trouble, nervousness and catarrh of the stomach, I often suffered severely from pains. The little food I ate didn't agree with me and I was usually constipated.

"I can't discern the least sign of my former nervousness, since I've taken Trutona. My bowels are acting regularly now, too. It seems that everything I eat agrees with me. The pains in my back, chest and stomach have vanished and I'm not annoyed at night by my kidneys as before. Trutona is a real medicine and I'm glad to recommend and commend it to the public."

Trutona is especially beneficial for stomach, bowel and liver troubles catarrhal complaints, nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of appetite and the like and has proven a splendid reconstructive agency, system purifier and body invigorant.

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Lancaster at McRoberts Drug store.

PROCLAMATION For Father and Son Week

No greater problem can engage our serious attention than that of conserving the boy life of our State and Nation; and there has never been a time in our history when the need of this conservation was more apparent than it is today. Therefore, I, Edwin P. Morrow, Governor of the State of Kentucky in the hope of arousing the men of the State to a sense of their responsibility toward their own boys and the boys of their community, and in the further hope of strengthening the ties that ought to bind fathers and sons together in good fellowship, do issue this proclamation, and I request that the week from February 16th to 22nd be set apart as

FATHER AND SON WEEK

I earnestly urge that such special observances as have been planned by the churches, the Y. M. C. A., and other organizations may receive the patriotic support of all of our citizens.

Seal—IN TESTIMONY WHERE-OF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and caused the Great Seal of the State of Kentucky to be affixed in the City of Frankfort, this 22nd day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and nineteen.

The First Dose Gave Relief

C. E. Summers, Holdridge, Neb., writes: "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cough and cold due to exposure. My cough got so bad I could hardly sleep for two or three nights. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and I got a 96 bottle. The very first dose relieved me. I took a second dose before going to bed and can truthfully say I did not cough once all night. I used the medicine and I gave Foley's Honey and Tar full credit for my speedy and permanent recovery."

For more than thirty years Foley's Honey and Tar has been used with satisfaction and success.

Modern Dances Kill All Modesty of Girls

Dr. Sullivan Asserts.

New York City.—Dr. Margaret Sullivan, Jersey City, strongly condemned the modern dress of girls and dancing before a gathering of prominent women of the home department of the contemporary at the Y. M. C. A., New York, recently.

Modern dancing tends to kill all "modesty in the girls of today," declared Dr. Sullivan. "The girls of today do up their faces like circus clowns and dances of today are the East African sex dances—the dances of cannibals.

"You cannot expect your little girl in her teens to go out to an evening party clad as the young girl of today is too often clad, then throw her into the arms of her dancing partner and expect her to come back to you the same girl. You have deprived her of her greatest defense—her modesty."

Derivation of "Hoodium."

Hoodium now means a young, rough rowdy. The term is derived from a gang of toughs in San Francisco, under the leadership of one Muldoon.

They were called for the name of their leader, the syllables of whose name, out of contempt, were reversed and slightly modified. Instead of Muldoon they were called Hoodiums.

"Some Tall Thinking"

By SAIDEE E. BALCOM

(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union)

"What is wrong with you, Hiram?" inspired Mrs. Parton as her husband flicked the flanks of the team of horses he was driving, in a vicious sort of way that was not natural with his usually easy-going nature.

"Nothing that I know of," responded the farmer, "except that I am doing some tall thinking."

They had just been calling upon the Doane family, and now were passing two new bungalows in the course of construction at the corner of the place nearest to the town.

"A happy, well satisfied family," reflected Hiram reflectively. "Two girls married—good husbands—and ours—" A complaining, disappointed, what seemed to be a half envious intonation in his speech caused his wife to regard him with censoring amazement. "Why, Hiram Parton!" she exclaimed. "It isn't possible that you want to get rid of Ruthie and Pearl!"

"You know I don't, mother," returned Hiram promptly, "but a talk with Neighbor Doane set me sort of casting up things. His daughters are younger than ours, and yet they are settled in life. It has set me thinking that ours are both of marriageable age and yet they don't seem to hit it. Young men nowadays are dawdlers. They hang around and enjoy it, but not one of the beaux Ruthie and Pearl have had has come down to business. Aren't they spoiling the chances of the girls by not leaving the way clear for young men really looking for wives? I'm thinking of the girls, Rachel. I'd hate to see them left maidens."

"Don't let that trouble you," spoke Mrs. Parton quite tartly. "Prettier, better behaved girls don't exist!" "Well, you and I knew each other only six months before we got spliced. Haven't we been happy ever since?"

Hiram could not demur nor deny, but remarked: "Verne Walters and Barry Grey are two fine, sensible young men. They like our daughters and the girls know it, and are glad of it. Give them time, Hiram—you will have to part with them sooner than you wish, maybe."

"Well, Doane gave me a few ideas today," said Hiram. "Those fellows have been coming to the house for over a year regularly and ought to know their minds by this time."

"Yes, and they enjoy it, like all the young people. Who wouldn't? for you help like all the rest of us to make them welcome. I am glad to show real hospitality and encourage it in the girls."

Nothing more was said just then, but when they had reached home and Hiram was alone in the barn putting up the horses he muttered: "I'll take Doane's advice and try some new tactics. I'm spoiling those young fellows with too much kindness. They've just got to declare themselves."

Verne Walters was courting Ruthie Parton and Barry Grey her sister Pearl, according to local gossip, and had indeed become almost domesticated with the Partons. The place had got to be like home to them and they and the girls enjoyed every moment of their harmonious companionship. Amid comfort, contentment and a general understanding as to what this would lead to, the young men allowed matters to drift, and the girls were glad of the opportunity to get fully acquainted with the lovers they intuitively surmised would sooner or later broach the subject of marriage. The following Sunday afternoon, on their way to visit a sick friend, Verne and Barry drove up to the Barton farmhouse in a buggy. It was raining and usually Mr. Parton led their rig to the barn, but on this occasion he sat in a corner of the porch and made no move. When, after half an hour, the young men departed, he awarded them a mere nod of the head. Ruthie glanced at him reproachfully and Pearl was rather frightened at his unceremonious manner.

He let cross-grained unfriendly Tige loose about the time the young men returned and the animal by no means gave them a cordial greeting. It had always been the custom for Mr. Parton to go down into the cellar about eight o'clock in the evening and bring up some of his prime cider and chat in a gracious way with the visitors. On the present occasion he steadfastly smoked in solitude and there was a decided tension in affairs as the young men left early and the girls went to bed feeling that a cloud had come over the pleasant home life.

The ensuing Wednesday evening Hiram persevered in the same line of tactics. He was uncommunicative, he turned out the parlor light early and the lovers strolled about the garden by themselves glad to get away from the gloom sullen behavior of their former genial host.

Ruthie and Pearl came in half an hour later looking consciously embarrassed. Their father stole probing glances at them. Then he noticed what he was looking for.

"Got a new ring, each of you, haven't you?" he observed and Ruthie blushed and Pearl said:

"Yes, father, they are engagement rings."

"Oh! Is that so?" piped Hiram, cheerily. "Well, tell the boys when they fix the wedding day to pick out a site for two bungalows, and I'll foot the bill," and he winked at Rachel and was quite his normal self, and she readily surmised that his spell of severity was all past and gone.

The Inspired Compositor.

From a Divorce Report—She claims that marriage is nothing but a disillusion and a snore.—Boston Transcript.

Inspiration Generally Earned.

There seems to exist a tendency to ascribe inspiration to a process which is the result of a preliminary effort. Many have noticed that, after long and fruitless mental effort, the result for which they have been striving comes to them suddenly while they are thinking of something entirely different. The preliminary mental toil has borne its fruit subconsciously.

Home-Made Water Filter.

To make a cheap water filter, take a large garden pot and stop the hole in the bottom by placing a piece of rouge in it. Cover with a few inches of powdered charcoal, fill with water, and let it stand over a pail or tub supported by two or three sticks laid across. The water filtering through the charcoal will be freed from all impurities and will be fit for family use. The charcoal should be changed every three months and the sponge several times a year.

Wealth in Dead Sea Region.

It is not generally known that ample quantities of bitumen occur in the dead sea region. It can easily be gathered and prepared for use in road making, and there is the advantage that it will be obtainable at much cheaper rates than those which now obtain in the Near East and in Europe. The material can best be applied by means of the usual tar-spraying machine.

GET BEHIND

THE BOND ISSUE.

We have been a close observer of road construction for a number of years, and it is our firm conviction that building of soft macadam roads as has been done in this and adjoining counties is a failure.

What is termed "water bound macadam roads" will not hold under the use of heavy and high speed motor vehicles which constantly pass over the main highways. A new system must be adopted in light of this failure at once, or we shall have no roads at all.

At the public meeting which assembled at the invitation of the county judge yesterday in Lancaster a plan was unanimously agreed upon and we hope it will be the awakening of our people to needs of this county and the opportunity that now knocks at our door.

SHORT ILLNESS

Proves Fatal To W. M.
Bright of Stanford.

Her Citizens Mourn His Passing.

The death of Mr. William Morrison Bright in Stanford last Tuesday morning, removes from that town and community one of its best known and most beloved citizens. Mr. Bright had only been sick about a month and his death comes as a great shock to all who knew him. In relating his death the Interior Journal says:

Although it was not unexpected, the community was greatly shocked when it was announced that Mr. W. M. Bright had passed away at 8:20 Tuesday morning. He returned Saturday from the hospital of Mayo Brothers, who were never able on account of the condition of his blood, to make an exploratory operation to ascertain the cause of his trouble. He became worse shortly after reaching home and rapidly declined until the end. The funeral services will be at his late residence Thursday afternoon at 2:30, after which the burial will take place in Buffalo Springs Cemetery.

William Morrison Bright, the oldest child of John and Mrs. Sarah Dunn Bright, was born in Boyle county, Kentucky, April 13, 1857, where his father at the time was temporarily engaged in farming, but his parents returned to Lincoln shortly after his birth, and here the whole of his useful life was subsequently spent.

After receiving his education at the private school of Prof. Joseph B. Myers, a famous educator in his day, and at Central University, then located at Richmond, Mr. Bright engaged in mercantile pursuits for a short time, but about 35 years ago he accepted a position in what is now the Lincoln County National Bank, then under the management of that financial genius, Dr. John B. Owsley, and finally rose to the head of the institution and made it one of the most successful country banks in the state.

Whatever Mr. Bright did was done thoroughly. He had no patience with inefficiency. He mastered the banking business in all of its ramifications and details, both in theory and practice, and was recognized as one of the most efficient bankers in the state.

The modern and commodious office building of the Lincoln County National Bank, made necessary by the phenomenal growth of its business, is a monument to Mr. Bright's foresight and efficiency, and it is very sad to think that while he almost saw its completion he did not live to enjoy it.

Early in life Mr. Bright became a member of the Christian church and has always led a consistent Christian life, being a regular attendant upon the services of his church and a liberal contributor to its support.

On June 12, 1888, he was married to Miss Lula H. McKinney and these twain have indeed been one flesh, for there was never a more harmonious union. ED D. SHINNICK,

Automobile Maker

Dies of Pneumonia.

New York.—John Dodge, of Detroit, automobile manufacturer, died here last week from pneumonia.

The career of John F. Dodge paralleled in many ways that of a majority of Michigan's leading automobile makers. It began in a small machine shop; included many struggles against poverty and failure and its close found him one of the motor kings of the world with a fortune estimated at upwards of $50,000,000. He with his brother, Horace Dodge, composed the firm of Dodge Brothers, manufacturers of the Dodge auto.

HELD STATE POSITION.

SHELBYVILLE, KY.—Ed D. Shinnick, 65 years old, editor of the Shelbyville Record and former secretary of the State Board of Control, died at his home five miles west of this city Monday night at 6 o'clock after an illness of four months.

Mr. Shinnick's death was due to heart trouble. He had been confined to his bed most of the time for four months, but had been up at intervals.

He had been engaged in the newspaper business here since 1886 and became owner of the Record shortly after it was founded. He served one term as president of the Kentucky Press Association and was a regular attendant at its annual meetings.

He served eighteen months as secretary of the Board of Control, retiring when Governor Morrow entered office. He was prominent in Democratic politics.

Surviving him are his widow, formerly Miss Mollie Sullivan, and four sons, Lieut. W. C. Shinnick, Frank Shinnick, Charles L. Shinnick and Ed. Shinnick, Jr.

Great Things Planned For Famous Old Transylvania

College of Bible and Hamilton College
Included in Kentucky Disciples' Forward
Step to Enlarge the Equipment of these Noted Institutions of Learning at Lexington

For the maintenance of its rightful place, so long occupied among America's leading educational institutions, historic Transylvania, Lexington, Ky., is to unite with the Disciples of Christ of the State, and its thousands of friends throughout the country, in a vigorous campaign for the imperative enlargement of its equipment and for an adequate compensation of its faculty.

The College of the Bible, for the training of men and women for the ministry and administration, and Hamilton College, the Junior College for Women, will share in this campaign, which is to be conducted as a part of the Interchurch World Movement.

Up to the time of the starting of the Interchurch World Movement financial drive, Transylvania and its friends will conduct a campaign of education, in order that the urgencies of these institutions may be so well understood that every one will be glad to share in their opportunity of sharing in their support.

One of the first needs of the institution is a fire-proof building to house its priceless

Eighteen of the twenty-six recognized masters in American Letters were college men; seventeen of the eighteen were from Christian colleges. Of the members of Congress in 1905 who had received a college education and whose achievements gave them a place in "Who's Who in America," two-thirds were graduates of church colleges.

Transylvania and the College of the Bible have educated one president, two vice-presidents, the president of the Southern Confederacy; also secretaries of state, treasurer, post master-general, attorney general; scores of United States senators and congressmen; a Speaker of the House; ministers to many foreign countries; governors of a large number of states; mayors of large cities; authors of national and international reputation; physicians and surgeons of world-wide fame, and thousands of ministers and missionaries of the Christian religion.

Dr. Richard H. Collins, historian of Kentucky, characterizes its graduates "as statesmen, jurists, orators, surgeons and divines among the greatest in the world's history—men of mark in all the professions and callings of life."

John Fox Jr., noted author, another Transylvanian.

Rev. James Lane Allen, noted author, graduate of Transylvania.

of the opportunity of sharing in their support.

There is also a widespread conviction of the necessity of the maintenance of the college under distinctive Christian influences. An investigation made a few years ago revealed these significant facts:

Eight of the nine Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States were college men; seven of the eight were educated in Christian colleges. Eighteen of the twenty-six Presidents of the United States were college men; sixteen of the eighteen were from Christian colleges.

NEARLY TWO HUNDRED DEAD

From Drinking Poisonous Alcohol Substitutes.

MANY TOTALLY BLIND FROM SAME CAUSE.

The alarming number of deaths since Dec. 1st, from drinking wood alcohol and other poisonous mixtures under the name of alcohol or whiskey, has stirred the U. S. authorities to action.

Arrests of venders of these poisons are being made all over the country.

In Brooklyn over 18 barrels of poisoned alcohol enough to kill 20,000 people, was found by Federal agents.

In Chicopee Mass., and its neighborhood fifty deaths occurred from drinking wood alcohol during the Christmas holidays and 125 were reported dead from the same causes from other cities of the country. These casualties do not list the larger number who have been physically wrecked or totally blinded from the same cause.

Wood alcohol produced a total loss of sight, when it does not kill and that there are many victims to this, that are unreported, there can be no doubt.

The New Year celebrations have added to the Christmas casualties, though not in such large degree. However there were reported 28 deaths since Jan. 1st. In Chicago 32 deaths have occurred since Dec. 1st.

In San Francisco a whiskey substitute that was intended for New Year's celebrations, and was seized by the Federal authorities, it contained crude oil, embalming fluid, oil of peppermints and oil of camphor. This was a milder formula than many of the co-called substitutes offered for sale.

Wood alcohol has been getting a lot of free advertising of late. But we're not a bit dry, thank you.

Even the stone deaf man has much for which to be thankful. He can not hear the idiotic jumble of jazz music now being inflicted upon a groaning and squirming and tympani lacerated public.

A full grown antelope is said to be able to attain a speed of sixty miles an hour. Bully! When we want to cut a dash we'll just annex an ante, saddle it up, climb aboard, and kick up dust in the eyes of our local speed maniacs.

Speaking of modern discoveries, how long is it since you rediscovered the Ten Commandments? And how many in this community—except preachers—would really like to give a truthful answer to that question? We wouldn't.

A few years ago we laughed mightily at the silly fool who professed that man would soon be flying in the air. Now we are wondering how we can connect up with a plane for use in gathering up the news for this sheet.

Watch Your Teeth!

When teeth are left to run their own course without care and without due regard to other parts of the body, when the teeth are not cleaned regularly or cared for by a dentist, there soon comes a dental wreck. This means disaster that undermines the health and may shorten life.

One sore tooth may throw the entire mouth out of service. A midnight seige of the toothache is sufficient to convince any individual of the truth of this statement.

Don't think that because a child's teeth will be replaced that they require no attention. Bad teeth frequently stunt a child's growth both mentally and physically.

If the permanent teeth erupt into a clean, healthy mouth, free of dirt and decay, they will remain sound and strong.

If this mouth is filled with microorganisms from decayed baby teeth they will cause the permanent teeth to decay.

It is just as necessary to clean the child's teeth as it is to wash its face and hands. The mouth is the gateway thru which passes all food that goes into the stomach. What is the use of pure food laws if all the food which goes to nourish the body is contaminated the minute it enters an unclean mouth. We would object seriously if we were given unclean knives, forks and spoons to eat with.

How many individuals clean those other eating utensils—the teeth—after each meal? Food decays in the mouth in fifty minutes; much faster than it does out of the mouth.

Everything we eat or drink and much of the air we breathe must enter thru the mouth. Almost every germ that enters the human body must enter thru the mouth or nose. The mouth is an ideal incubator for germs. Here they find an ideal condition for existence—food, moisture, heat, darkness, etc. Micro-organisms are omnipresent in every mouth.

It is estimated that a clean mouth will contain many million of germs. As all germs multiply very rapidly, a mouth uncleansed for twenty-four hours will contain many hundred millions, and it is safe to say that thousands of millions of germs are found in some unclean human mouths if not on each individual tooth. It takes a vast quantity of decaying food mixed with the germs of putrefaction to make a bad breath, and most bad breaths are simply due to uncleanliness. Such mouths are not only a menace to the health of the possessor but to every person they come in contact with. A chronic abscess on the face is a source of considerable concern to the average person, but a blind abscess at the apex of a tooth or a case of pyorrhea is usually ignored or neglected.

Yet the boil or pimple generates a small amount of pus in comparison.

The reason for most of the neglect of these conditions is that they are hidden. If these abscesses and unclean conditions of the mouth were on the outside, exposed to view, our vanity would soon correct them.

It has been estimated that a mouth with a bad case of pyorrhea and filled with abscesses will throw out a quantity of pus into the stomach and blood stream in a year that will equal the weight of the entire body.

Nine out of every ten persons have decayed teeth. In fact there are few people who do not neglect their teeth.

The average condition of the dental organs is unclean, neglected, impaired and diseased. The human body, like any other delicate mechanism, must be in perfect condition in order to function perfectly.

Physicians realize that the general health depends largely upon the condition of the teeth and mouth, that there is a direct relationship between a clean mouth, good teeth and good health.

Watch your teeth! And your children's teeth! Remember that YOU are responsible for your children's teeth. Childhood is the age of irresponsibility, therefore, the care of their teeth is up to you.

Transylvania College

Is Not Conducted For Profit.

There are very few American colleges that make any profit out of their students. That is especially true of the small colleges. But for their endowment they would have to raise their tuition fees to such an extent as to make the cost of an education prohibitive to many poor, but ambitious men and women now working their way thru college.

It is true of Transylvania College at Lexington, where the poor boy or girl may obtain a classical education as cheaply as any where in the United States and pay for it with their own work besides. Figures recently compiled show that seventy-five per cent of Transylvania's students are paying all or part of their expenses by working outside of school hours.

REPUBLICANS

"Get" Senator Burton.

Frankfort, Ky.—Reinforced by a Senator elected by Democrats, presided over by a Republican Lieutenant Governor, and operating under a set of rules of their own making, Republicans took control of the Kentucky Senate last week despite the Democratic majority of two in that body, and ratified nominations made by Governor Morrow for places on the State Tax Commission and the Workmen's Compensation Board.

They would have ratified also nominations for places on the State Racing Commission had it not been for the charge made by Democrats that one of the nominees, J. B. Respass, Erlanger, thrice had been convicted for operating in Covington a poolroom wherein wagers on results of horse races were accepted.

This disclosure threw the Republicans into confusion for the time being, but they rallied and are planning to bring about ratification of Racing Commission nominees tomorrow morning. A new list of names will be submitted, however, the Governor having decided to substitute for Respass' name that of J. O. Keene, Lexington. Mr. Keene, like Johnson N. Camden, another of Governor Morrow's nominee, is at present a member of the commission and a breeder of thoroughbred horses.

Governor Morrow's appointees on the Tax Commission are George McRoberts, banker, Danville; Robert P. Greene, educator, Bowling Green and James A. Scott, Pikeville, who succeeds himself. Mr. McRoberts and Mr. Green succeed Ben D. Ringo, Owensboro and Robert L. Green former State Auditor. Mr. McRoberts is said to be a Democrat. The others are Republicans.

Robert P. Green and R. L. Green are not related. The former entered the race for the Republican nomination for State Superintendent of Public Instruction, but withdrew in favor of Mr. Colvin. Mr. Green is president of the Kentucky Educational Association.

A split in Republican ranks over Mr. Scott's confirmation loomed at one time. Among his opponents was Representative John W. Langley, who has been here the greater part of the time since the convening of the Legislature in an effort to defeat Scott. Maurice Galvin, Covington, saved the scalp of the Pikeville man.

Mr. Galvin, it is said, holds a trumpet during this session of the Legislature that other Republican leaders cannot afford to ignore.

Galvin is reported to be a close personal friend of Senator Burton.

In a speech delivered on the floor of the Senate Senator Charles M. Harris President pro tempore of the Senate, declared that "to the names of Judas Iscariot and Benedict Arnold should be added the name of the Senator from Grant" (Senator Burton).

Senator Burton's reply was that the Democratic party in the state was dead, killed by the vote of Democratic Senators who had voted for the ratification of woman suffrage.

"The newspapers credited me with having bolted the Democratic party," said Senator Burton, in explaining his vote.

"I did not bolt the Democratic party. I bolted the Rules Committee.

"Every action I have taken in this matter is conscientious. I stand responsible to the 60,000 Democrats who voted the Republican ticket in the last election.

"On that 60,000 vote I believe I could build up a new Democratic party but for the fact that I see rising before it a black wall. When the members of my party allowed the nineteenth (suffrage) amendment to go through to ratification they added the vote of 85,000 negro women to Republicanism. The Democratic party of Kentucky ratified that amendment last Tuesday they played the last card in the Democratic deck."

So distressing! That story about all of those thousands of households coming over from Europe was all a cruel joke. And we were just glorying in the time when we could graduate from washing dishes and begin to throw on a little editorial "dog".

"Love's Ladder"

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTH

(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union)

"Hands up!" ordered Zeb Deane, village marshal of Plympton, and one of his own extended a gleaming weapon.

Amid the obscurity of the Trescott garden the person he confronted was not clearly distinguishable. He had halted at the mandate, but he mystified his doughty challenger by indulging in a low, mirthful chuckle.

"No need, Zeb!" he spoke airily. "It's only me, Morton Wells. A ladder, a seeming burglar on the roof of the sun parlor, and you naturally took me for a burglar. Well, I've been stealing nothing but—kisses!"

"Hub!" ejaculated Zeb bewilderedly, but the young man had coolly taken his arm, led the protector of Plympton clear of the grounds and backed him to a tree. "You're a good friend of mine," prefaced Morton.

"Seeing as you got me my present job—rather," acquiesced the old watchman fervently.

"I know I can trust you with a secret. Pretty Eunice Trescott loves me and I love her. Cruel parents who look upon me as a ne'er-do-well refused me the house—and I have to see Eunice once in a while, and as the sun porch leads right off from her room, and my folding ladder is easy to carry along, we have circumvented gruff old papa. Clever, eh?"

"I declare!" exclaimed Zeb, as there was a click and a small contrivance in Morton's hand shot out a steel skeleton framework a dozen feet in length, and then drew it back into a compact mass he could place in his pocket. Made it yourself, too, eh?"

"That's about all I'm good for—pottering in mechanics," replied Morton rather ruefully. "Not much for anything else. That's why my attention to Eunice has disgruntled the old folks. Now then, Zeb, keep your own counsel and don't take me for a cracksmen next time you see me around here."

Zeb looked fondly after Morton as he disappeared. Then he shook his head gravely. Headless, headstrong Morton Wells, a model as to habits and character, was looked upon as an impractical dreamer. He had "liked to fuss with tools" since he was an urchin, and this prediction had been present in his later years. For all that, the girls of the town adored him and the young men treasured him as a companion and friend.

It was three nights after the episode of the sun porch that old Zeb halted as he was passing the Trescott place, as was his custom several times between dusk and dawn.

"Hello!" he uttered—"some more mystery. I certainly heard a groan."

It echoed from the rear of the Trescott home and Zeb entered the grounds. As he neared a one-story wing of the house he made a discovery. Upon the ground lay a motionless form; outspread upon the grass was the ladder Morton Wells had shown him the Monday previous.

Zeb glanced at the house. It was dark and silent. It did not take him long to figure out the situation. Morton had made one of his daring visits to his darling, and in descending to the ground had missed his footing, or the ladder had collapsed, and here he was, the evidence of the fact. Zeb was too good a friend to Morton to arouse the Trescott family, thus betraying his favorite's clandestine visits. He tried to arouse Morton, but the latter was unconscious. Zeb lifted him bodily and got him to the street. He rested him under a tree. In the course of a few minutes Morton was restored to sensibility. He winced with pain as he tried to use one arm.

"It's broken, Zeb," he told the watchman. "Get me home, will you? And say—afterward go and get that ladder. If it's found the Trescotts will guess what I've been up to. I'll be around in a day or two again and don't want to be shut out from seeing Eunice."

But Morton's prediction was without basis. For a week he was under the surgeon's care with orders to remain quiet, and with the injured member in a plaster cast for a fortnight longer. His wealthy brother from the city, who had been somewhat distant with him for a year or two on account of his shifting ways, came down to see him. He wheeled out of Zeb the full details of the accident. He examined the ladder with manifest interest. He, too, looked over several experiments in the way of invention in the workroom of his wifely brother.

"He's a genius, young Morton is," declared the loyal Zeb. "There isn't a finer young man in Plympton, and if someone took hold of him and set him on his feet right he'd win in the end."

"I think I see my way to encouraging him to a start," replied Arnold Wells, a speculative look in his eye. "My business is the manufacture of hardware novelties, and that ladder and one or two other little inventions of Morton's come right in our line."

He told Morton this, too, gave him some brotherly advice, a pretentious check for his inventions, offered fair compensation for a year's service in his business establishment, and Morton steadied down into a sensible business man.

As a prosperous and accepted son-in-law to the parents of Eunice they rather enjoyed the recital of the ladder episode the day of the wedding.

Training Memory.

"Hands up!" ordered Zeb Deane, village marshal of Plympton, and one of his own extended a gleaming weapon.

"No need, Zeb!" he spoke airily. "It's only me, Morton Wells. A ladder, a seeming burglar on the roof of the sun parlor, and you naturally took me for a burglar. Well, I've been stealing nothing but—kisses!"

"Hub!" ejaculated Zeb bewilderedly, but the young man had coolly taken his arm, led the protector of Plympton clear of the grounds and backed him to a tree. "You're a good friend of mine," prefaced Morton.

"Seeing as you got me my present job—rather," acquiesced the old watchman fervently.

"I know I can trust you with a secret. Pretty Eunice Trescott loves me and I love her. Cruel parents who look upon me as a ne'er-do-well refused me the house—and I have to see Eunice once in a while, and as the sun porch leads right off from her room, and my folding ladder is easy to carry along, we have circumvented gruff old papa. Clever, eh?"

THORNHILL WAGONS

comment on the ease with which the wagon can be "backed up." This is due to the full circle iron. The ordinary circle is but a half circle (). In making a sharp turn bolsters often run to the end of the track and become "derailed." Thornhills cannot do this because their track is a circle (O).

Others comment on the fact that in spite of tremendous overloads, Thornhill axles never break. The reason for this is plain. They use tough highland hickory—reinforced by a steel truss bar that extends the full length of the axle.

Still others comment that the gears never get out of line. This unusual feature is due to one of their workmen's inventions. He designed a malleable front hound plate—bolted to the gears at eight points. It's literally a jacket of iron that holds gears in line and insures light running for life.

From hilly sections come reports that the old trouble of broken king bolts is unknown among owners of Thornhill wagons. This is because of a cup and saucer arrangement on the bolster.

KENTUCKY CROP RECORD IS SET

Thirteen Chief products pay Farmers

$400,751,000, Or 16 Per Cent Gain.

Those who find city high costs oppressive likely will become enamored of the soil when they learn that thirteen leading crops produced by Kentucky farmers in 1919 will yield a total of $400,751,000, according to the report issued here last week by the United States Bureau of Crop Estimates.

This is a high record, $54,165,000 more than farmers received in 1918, or a gain of 16 per cent. This profit was despite the fact that total production was about 4 per cent less than in 1918.

Tobacco Ranks First.

Sensational prices for tobacco is the main reason for the vast total. The bureau estimates this crop will bring $174,383,000, compared with $123,715,000 in 1918. This is based on an estimated price of 38.2 cents a pound for all Kentucky types.

Corn Value $127,875,000.

Corn is second, with an estimated value of $127,875,000; hay, third, with $39,649,000; wheat, fourth, $25,381,000, and potatoes, fifth, $10,584,000. Other crops with estimated value of $400,751,000 are oats, rye, barley, potatoes, sweet potatoes, sorghum syrup, clover seed, apples and peaches.

Kentucky ranks fourteenth in value of principal crops produced in 1919 compared to seventeenth in 1918 and eighteenth for the average production of principal crops 1913-17, inclusive.

The acreage of wheat sowed in Kentucky last fall was 719,000 compared to 1,057,000 acres in 1918.

Farm wages in Kentucky increased approximately 13 per cent from December 1st, 1918, to December 1st, 1919.

Reaping Machines.

Over two hundred different reaping machines have been patented. The first one was invented in the eighteenth century, but failed through its intricacies. The Rev. Patrick Bell appears to have originated the first practical machine of this class in 1826, and it was first used in 1827, the principle being that on which the best machines are now constructed.

Instinct of Birds.

The circumstance of the bluebirds being emboldened by the cold, suggests the fact that the fear of man, which now seems like an instinct in the birds, is evidently an acquired trait, and foreign to them in a state of primitive nature. Every gunner has observed, to his chagrin, how wild the pigeons become after a few days of firing among them; and, to his delight, how easy it is to approach near his game in new or unfrequented woods.—J. Executor's Sale

Of Land.

The undersigned, will, as executor of the will of George Davis, deceased, on

JANUARY 26th, 1920,

(it being the first day of a regular term of County Court, for Garrard County, Ky.) at about 11 o'clock A. M. at the Court House Door in Lancaster, Ky., sell at public out-cry to the highest and best bidder about 20 acres of land; said land to be cut off the west side of the HOME TRACT of said George Davis and same being located in Garrard County, Ky., on the Fall Lick Pike and about 10 miles from Lancaster, Ky., said land to be sold by the acre and paid for according to the number of acres so cut off whether there be more than 20 acres or less than 20 acres, however there will not be more than 25 acres or less than 15 acres. The part to be cut off will start about 20 feet south of bridge, on the Fall Lick pike along the boundary of said land, and the line to run so as to leave as near a straight line as can be along the remaining lands. The executor reserves the right to have same cut off as he may desire so as not to injure the remaining land of the said Home Tract.

TERMS OF SALE:—The purchaser will be required to pay $300.00 cash on day of sale, same to be applied on the purchase price, and the balance up to one half of the entire purchase price in cash when deed is made (this to be done as soon as said land can be surveyed) and he will execute his note for the other one half due in 1 year from date of deed, drawing interest at 6 per cent per annum from date, and a lien retained on the land to secure said note.

The purpose of the sale is to pay the balance of a mortgage debt against the entire farm, there not being sufficient personal estate to pay all of same.

ROBERT BOIAN,
Executor of the will of Geo. Davis.

Illustrating Progress.

The Chicago Tribune says: "If man, a curious animal, had been deterred by fear of the unknown, we should still be lighting our fires by rubbing two pieces of wood together." As it is, we have followed our curiosity, and have achieved matches, pieces of wood, with which we start our fires by rubbing not two, but twenty-five or thirty up and down the wall and over the stove. Sometimes there is gas in the stove, which ignites from the match, and makes a fine fire.—Kansas City Star.

NEW AND MORE LIBERAL BENEFITS

For Ex-Service Men

And Their Relatives and Beneficiaries Effective December 24, 1919.

Under the new Amendment to the War Risk Insurance Act, which has been passed by Congress and which became a law December 24th, 1919, when it was signed by the President war term insurance or United States Government life (converted) insurance policies may be made payable to any of the following list of beneficiaries:

Parent, grandparent, stepparent, parent through adoption, wife or husband, child, grandchild, stepchild, adopted child, brother, sister, half-brother, half-sister, brother through adoption, sister through adoption, stepbrother, stepsister, uncle, aunt, nephew, niece, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, a person who has stood in the relation of a parent to the insured for a period of one year or more prior to the insured's enlistment or induction, the children of such person; parent, grandparent, stepparent or parent through adoption of the insured's wife or husband.

United States Government life (converted) insurance may now be paid at death in a lump sum or in installments for 36 months or more, at the option of the insured.

The rate of compensation for disability has been greatly increased. A comparison between the amounts formerly granted under the War Risk Insurance Act with those provided by the new law follows:

Temporary Total Disability.

W. R. I. Act as Amended. With neither wife nor child $30. $80 With wife but no child $45. $90 With wife and one child $55. $95 With wife and 2 children $65. $100 With wife and 3 or more children $75. $100

With no wife but 1 child $40. $90 With no wife but 2 children $50. $95 With no wife but 3 children $60. $100

*with no wife but 4 children $60. $105 Extra allowance for dependent mother or dependent father or both $10 each. $10 each.

*Under the new law there is an allowance to a man temporarily totally disabled, and with no wife living, of $5 additional for each child (in excess of one) without limit as to number.

Total and Permanent Disability.

As amended Under the War Risk Insurance Act the same scale applied for total and permanent disability as for temporary total disability. A distinction is made between the two in the new law. Under the latter the compensation monthly for total and permanent disability is $100.

NOTE: (a) Under the new amendment if the disabled person is so helpless as to be in constant need of a nurse or attendant, an additional allowance is provided, in the discretion of the Director, not exceeding $20. Under the W. R. I. Act the same provision was effective, except that a man receiving $100 per month (as outlined in (b) below) could not be given an additional allowance.

(b) Both under the W. R. I. Act and under the new law, compensation for the loss of BOTH FEET OR BOTH HANDS or the SIGHT OF BOTH EYES, or for BECOMING HELPLESS AND PERMANENTLY bedridden is $100. In addition, the new law provides that compensation for the LOSS OF ONE FOOT AND ONE HAND, or ONE FOOT AND THE SIGHT OF ONE EYE, or ONE HAND AND THE SIGHT OF ONE EYE, shall be $100.

(c) The new law provides that for DOUBLE, TOTAL, PERMANENT DISABILITY the rate of compensation shall be $200.

The new law provides that each of the impairments mentioned in (b) shall be deemed to be total, permanent disability. Partial Disability.

The new law provides:

"If and while the disability is rated as PARTIAL and TEMPORARY, the monthly compensation shall be a percentage of the compensation that would be payable for * total and temporary disability, equal to the degree of the reduction in earning capacity resulting from the disability *."

"If and while the disability is rated as PARTIAL and PERMANENT, the monthly compensation shall be a percentage of the compensation that would be payable for * total and permanent disability equal to the degree of the reduction in earning capacity resulting from the disability *."

NOTE: In no case is compensation payable for a reduction in earning capacity rated at less than 10 per cent.

Why Is A Headache?

Various Causes for this Common Affliction.

Anemia or Bloodlessness a Very Common Cause

Pepto-Mangan Overcomes Anemia and Tends to Prevent Headaches

When one has an occasional headache it is usually due to some transient or passing cause, such as indigestion, eyestrain, over-tiredness, etc. When, however, one suffers from frequent periodic headaches there is always some special reason for it. Among the most common of such reasons is Anemia or Bloodlessness. This condition is especially frequent among girls and young women and those whose occupations or habits of life keep them too much indoors. The one important necessity in such cases is to build up the quantity and quality of the weak and watery blood. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is exceptionally valuable for this purpose. It increases the number and improves the quality of the red blood cells, those vital little bodies which carry nutrition to all parts of the body. It improves the appetite, imparts color to the strength to the body generally. After a short course of Pepto-Mangan the headaches decrease in frequency and severity, and finally disappear, if they are due to Anemia. Pepto-Mangan may be had either in liquid or tablet form, as preferred. When buying Pepto-Mangan be sure the name "Gude's" is on the package. Without "Gude's" it is not Pepto-Mangan.

The Morgan "Mystery"

Historians seeking an interesting field for research might do well to devote time and energy to the task of settling, beyond all question, the "Mystery" attached to the death of Gen. John H. Morgan, the great Confederate cavalryman. History does, emphatically, that General Morgan was killed in a surprise attack at Greenville, Tennessee. Gen. Basil Duke tells of the killing in his "History of Morgan's Cavalry," but unfortunately left to inference the explanation of his statement in this connection: "His fate however, is still involved in mystery." Presumably, this refers to the exact circumstances under which death occurred, but it has been seized upon to support a story, current for years after the Civil War, that General Morgan, taken prisoner, escaped with the aid of a secret order, went to Kansas, where he married and lived under an assumed name. Recently the New York Sun revived the story and said that at a reunion four years ago a Mrs. L. F. Laure made a speech in which she claimed to be a daughter of General Morgan by the Kansas wife, and that the General was known as Dr. John M. Cole. In a half-page article last Sunday The Sun gives the facts as gathered recently at Lexington where lives the widow of a brother of General Morgan. This brother, Col. Richard C. Morgan, testified positively for years before his death that General Morgan was shot down in a garden at Greenville on September 4, 1864. The body was buried at Abington, Tenn., later at Richmond, Va., and finally at Lexington.—Louisville Times. The evidence is strongly against the "mystery," but even stronger is the point made by the Lexington writer that if General Morgan had escaped, he would not have settled in Kansas during the war. He would have got back into the fight.—Louisville Times.

Novel Danger Signal.

The United States bureau of mines announces that it has developed a novel method for giving a danger warning in mines, particularly metal mines, in which compressed air is used throughout the workings. An ill-smelling substance is injected into the compressed air line, and within a few minutes the odor is spread through all parts of the mine.

Y. M. C. A. WILL GIVE EX-SERVICE MEN SCHOLARSHIPS

In Kentucky And Outside Schools And Colleges.

The National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. has set aside about $50,000 for the state of Kentucky to be used for scholarships for ex-service men. Any ex-service man who can present an honorable discharge is eligible to participate.

The State Y. M. C. A. of Kentucky will have this fund in charge for distribution in the state. In each of the twelve of the districts of the Y. M. C. A. there will be several men from each county appointed who will see that the soldiers in their own county are acquainted of the fact that there is such a fund available.

This committee will be appointed in a meeting in Louisville Friday of the State Educational Service Committee which has general charge of the fund. Later these names will be announced for Garrard county and one of their number will meet with representatives from other counties in Lexington to award the scholarships as they are applied for from time to time.

The idea is that the money will be made to go as far as possible and to as many soldiers as possible and in every case to serve the man who really wants to go to school and has no means whereby he can do it.

Some help will be given men who want to go to colleges but the greater number will be given help to go to business schools, technical schools, and vocational institutions. At a later issue this paper will give the names of schools which can participate and will give further information. If this money is not used by one county it will be applied on another so it is hoped that Garrard county men will take up what is due to them and the citizens should pass the word so that they will know the money is at hand for their benefit.

For further information apply to Karl P. Zerfoss, of the State Y. M. C. A. whose address is Y. M. C. A. Lexington. Mr. Zerfoss is the secretary who covers this territory and he will be glad to help any soldier in Garrard county to get the benefit of this fund. When the county committee is appointed they will be informed on the matter and will be able to give the right direction to applicants.

The Swiss Bell Ringers.

The Swiss Bell Ringers gave at the High School last evening a concert of high order, refined, inspiring, entertaining. If they ever come this way again it will be "standing room only" —New Castle (Pa.) Herald.

At the entertainment at the White Temple, First M. E. Church, a great variety of musical novelty instruments were used with such skill and technique as is rarely seen in this line of work, and to say the great audience was appreciative, is expressing it mildly.—St Joseph (Mo.) Gazette.

The Swiss Bell Ringers were a company of fine artists.—Cambridge (Eng.) Mail.

Nothing so splendid as the Bell Ringers has ever been heard here before—Gloucester (Eng.) Star.

At the Sarah Bernhardt theatre last night the Swiss Bell Ringers gave a very fine program on musical novelties. This very unusual concert drew out a large audience of both American and French. The company responded to the many encores. In closing the program Mr. George of the company made a neat little speech, thanking the people of Paris for their kindness and appreciation.—Paris Edition of the New York Herald, Paris France.

After hearing the Swiss Bell Ringers play at the Bernhardt Theatre the manager of the Follies Bergères Theatre engaged the company for two weeks.—Paris (France) Sport.

That the Swiss Bell Ringers are entertainers of rare ability and never fail to please the most critical audiences is the unqualified endorsement of Pastors, High School Principals, Superintendents, and the Press of this and foreign countries.

Profiteers Beware.

Profiteer landlords will be held to the straight and narrow path in paying their income taxes this spring, for the tenants are doing the driving and holding the whip.

Revenge is sweet to the tenant who has had to dig deep into his earnings to pay a high rental in 1919. Gathering his family around him, he takes his scratchy family pen in hand, searches the ink-bottle for that last drop of ink, and with a master stroke informs the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that he, Bill Brown, of the Hallroom Apartments, paid to John Smith, 13 Profiteer Avenue, Anywhere, U. S. A., $1200 for his three-room flat during the year 1919.

By gathering these reports from all the Bill Browns who are running themselves ragged to pay their rent, the International Revenue Bureau will have the information needed to see that the Profiteer Smiths pay proper tax or face prosecution.

The Information Returns now due covering payments of salaries, wages, rent, interest, and other income serve as useful data for running down tax-dodgers and for checking up millions of returns to see that proper tax is paid.

Large business houses have been faithfully making these information reports for several years and have co-operated whole-heartedly with the Government's checking system. The same obligation rests on smaller businesses, and on professional men; also on persons and organizations who employ secretaries, chauffeurs, servants, or persons in any capacity.

The Revenue Law requires the filing of these Information Returns in case where the total of payments during 1919 to any person, partnership or fiduciary was $1000 or more. Forms 1099 and 1096, on which the returns must be made, are now available at the office of Collectors of Internal Revenue.
